To Hopkinsville Ice Consumers

On account of the extraordinary advance in the cost of material used in the manufacture of ice and the delivery of same, namely: Labor, machinery, repairs, coal, calcium chloride, ammonia, hay, corn, and other feed stuffs we are forced to advance the price of ice and have established the following prices to go into effect April 1st and to continue until further notice:

500 lbs. one delivery	30 cents per 100
100 lbs.	45c
50 lbs.	25c
25 lbs.	15c
12 1/2 lbs.	8c

In the past we have been selling 10 lbs of ice for 5 cents. We will discontinue the five cent pieces and will sell 12 1/2 lbs for 8 cents.

GRADING FRUIT FOR MARKET

Producer Who Has Neglected to Spray Will Learn Its Value When He Attempts to Grade.

If the farmer desires to have his apples or other fruit compete successfully with that bought by the retailer on the general market, he must grade it carefully. When good, sound, well-graded fruit is brought to the stores by the farmer, some grocers are known to pay a good price for it and even to feature it as being home-grown.

The producer who has neglected to spray will learn a lesson on the value of spraying when he attempts to grade. He will find that the percentage of strictly high-grade specimens in his crop is very low. Even the unsprayed crop may be helped considerably by grading out those fruits which are bruised, rotted or have been badly damaged by insects or diseases. One or two rotten apples may prevent the sale of an entire basket.

Well graded fruit of the highest quality should be sound, well colored, free from insect or disease injury and neither blemished or bruised. The best grades are also uniform in size and color. When well graded, home-grown fruit appears on the market it is always in great demand. The grower who markets a high-class product of this kind gets a good price and is seldom caught with a surplus on hand.

HEAT FOR SMALL ORCHARDS

Expense of Both Installation and Operation Are Much Greater Than on Large Plantation.

The practicability of heating small orchards has often been questioned. It is comparatively much harder to heat a small orchard than a large one, and more pots are necessary to maintain the required temperature. For this reason, the expense of both installation and operation are much greater an acre than in the large orchard.

On the other hand, the small orchardist need employ no labor. Likewise, he uses oil in small quantities only, and has no expense for storage.

The cost of installing a heating system for a 10-acre orchard under mid-western conditions has been estimated at from $225 to $300, varying with local conditions. This includes heaters, tank wagon, torches, thermometers and a storage tank. The cost of labor and fuel should not exceed $10 to $20 an acre annually.

In regions where frosts are of frequent occurrence this small cost is good insurance, for, if well cared for, any orchard will produce a fruit crop worth from $100 to $400 an acre.

SUITABLE SOIL FOR GRAPES

Well-Drained Land of Good Fertility Is Required—Few Farms Where Crop Cannot Be Grown.

Grapes require a well-drained soil of good fertility. A light sandy loam, a clay loam or a gravelly loam where the seasons are anything like normal may be exposed to produce grapes. Grapes are grown on soils of other characteristics and doubtless there are very few farms where the rainfall is sufficient and where draining is ample that some varieties of grapes could not be grown.

DAMAGE FROM MICE AVOIDED

Remove All Loose, Trashy Material From Neighborhood of Base of the Tree Trunk.

Damage from mice should be avoided by the removal of all loose, trashy material from the neighborhood of the base of the tree trunk. If the ground has been fall plowed, the under furrow slice furnishes good nesting places for mice and the nearby trees are likely to suffer, but if the ground near the tree is clean and well compacted, little damage will be done by these rodents.

PEACE LEAGUE AMONG INDIANS

Delawares Long Acted as Arbiters Until Deposed by the Militaristic Iroquois Five Nations.

The American Indians did not know any way to make peace effective except by appeal to their women. To ask for peace was thought to be so unworthy of a male that unless women intervened there was nothing for it but to fight on to extinction. The Five Nations established their peace woman in a fort near Niagara river in a long house divided in the middle by a curtain. She would receive the contending parties each unknown to the other, and after she heard their cases, would draw back the curtain and give her decision.

The idea of woman as the proper arbiter prevailed in the famous international agreement between the Iroquois and the Lenni-Lenape. At this time the courteous and peace-loving Delawares were induced to become arbiters by being made women. This role of international peace-maker was carried out by the Delawares for long with dignity and success. But finally the pacific Delawares did something which was displeasing to the militaristic Five Nations of the Iroquois. Whereupon the Five Nations sent them word that the Delawares had lost their right to independent action. And so ended the first international peace league.—Mary Austin, in World Outlook.

LANGUAGE HOARDER.

Harry Lauder said in one of his Red Cross appeals in Chicago:

"Give generously. Give lavishly. Give wastefully. Don't be like the Scots."

"We Scots are supposed to be thrifty even of speech. There's a story about a Peebles couple who had a boy that they believed to be a scot, for up to his tenth year he never said a word."

"One day his father and he were at work in the hay field, and, getting thirsty, they made their way toward a jug of cold tea."

"The father took the jug and began to drink. As he gulped the tea down slowly, the thirsty boy said:

"Make haste!"

"The father put down the jug in astonishment."

"Why, Tam," he said, "you're talkin'! Why didn't ye never speak afore?"

"Naught for to say," said Tam."

Mouth Juices Keep Teeth Clean.

An English physician has advanced the theory that the juices of the mouth are intended to keep the teeth clean, not to prepare food for digestion as generally believed.
